

Stuck Inside? Check Out These 30 Fun Indoor Activities

All parents know to be true that kids are happiest playing outdoors. Unfortunately for them, and us, there are many days every year the weather just doesn't cooperate. Even though it's nearly summer, the rain and the heat can conspire against us to keep kids indoors.

Science

If your kids are more tactile, they may be more interested in a science-art fusion kit where kids learn scientific concepts (whether they realize it or not) while making art projects. No kid can resist making bubbles indoors! Bring the outside in with bubble paint, bubble slime, bubble foam, bubble sculptures, and more bubble-friendly experiments.
