

TODAY

“...Okay, so in ‘Today's Classroom,’ we have Toys that Teach. Now, if your child talks about being a film maker one day or maybe being the next Al Roker, we have some exciting toys that can help spark their dreams. This is a sneak peek at our platinum award list we'll roll out next month...

...Here we go! Hey Al, so Jay is here and he is talking about the Magic School Bus Weather Set from The Young Scientists Club which I thought would be up your alley. For aspiring Weather Forecasters! It really makes science hands on. All the numbers that you talked about on TV, kids can follow the weather. They can keep track of the weather in their area. That's right. With their own little Weather Lab. now we're making a tornado here in a bottle. Yeah and you get the spin there. There you go. Spinning around...

...I love that. All right. Stephanie Oppenheim, with ToyPortfolio.com. Thank you so much. Thank you guys. Thank you very much.”
